[19 November, 2018]

There were a record number of entries to this year's awards to cap another year of impressive achievements for design projects across the Asia region. The awards marked yet another ground-breaking development in the region's leading architecture, interiors and product design competition. In attendance were over three hundred guests, including shortlisted award winners, judges, architects and interior designers, as well as board members from leading local architect and design associations.

The gala presentation evening for the A&D TROPHY AWARDS 2018 was held at Eaton Club, Central, on Friday 16 November. Best of Category awards and Certificates of Excellence were awarded in each category, and among the major winners of the evening were M Moser Associates, LIXIL, GLA-Design and Tokyo-based TDStudio.

In addition, Best of the Best Trophies (presented by Rocco Yim) were awarded:

- Neri&Hu Design and Research Office The Walled – Tsingpu Yangzhou Retreat (Architecture). This is the second year in a row for the firm to receive The Best of the Best Trophy for the Architecture category.
- A Work of Substance for The Fleming (Interior Design)
- COLOURLIVING for Dornbracht – Aquamoon (Product Design)
- Cynthia Lam Hiu Ching for Museum of REDEEM the Earth (Students)

The night also honoured the 2018 Pinnacle Award recipient, Ronald J Phillips. Phillips, who lives in the United Kingdom and was unable to attend the ceremony, was represented by friend Professor Cole Roskam of The University of Hong Kong who accepted the award on his behalf.

“Little did I think as a young architect arriving here so long ago that I would receive such an award and it is much appreciated. Professionally Hong Kong was for me the most rewarding and fulfilled part of my career and I cannot thank enough those responsible for giving me the opportunity to practice my art in such a dynamic society, I could go on on, but suffice to say thank you for this recognition.....” said Phillips on hearing of his receiving the award.
